

Rebecca, Steve, Caroline, Lexi, and Jake continue to live a very busy life. It was a good and busy year for the Madsens.

Rebecca is still the Chief Consumer Officer at UnitedHealthcare going on 23 years. She still loves the work and being an advocate for people and trying to improve their experiences.

In February she was selected as one of Modern Healthcare's Top 25 Women Leaders. This program honors female executives from all sectors of the healthcare system who are developing policy, leading change and guiding healthcare delivery improvement across the country.

In addition, she was selected as one of the Top Women in Healthcare from PR News.

Steve continues to work at Janney Montgomery, where he bikes to and from work every day (which is no small feat in Manhattan). With the kids going in a million different directions Rebecca and Steve had to divide and conquer to accommodate their schedules, but they both enjoyed the trips they took. They are very proud of the kids and, more than their accomplishments, that they are positive, polite, hard working, nice people.

Jake enjoyed a lot of travel including skiing in Aspen, soaking up the sun in West Palm, spending the summer at London School of Economics which gave him a chance to visit Paris and Amsterdam, and experiencing Iceland with Rebecca and Caroline in August. He and Steve went on their usual sports excursions including to North Carolina to meet some players on the Panthers, Packers games, Knick games and the Big East. Steve is glad Jake is close enough to home to continue their traditions! Jake definitely has the family travel gene! He is in his sophomore year at Princeton and involved in a lot of activities including a number of business and investment clubs and joining a fraternity. He is still planning on majoring in Economics and is living with a great bunch of kids and has many friends.

Lexi had her final year at Tripp Lake Camp after 9 years. There are a lot of traditions and ceremonies surrounding being a 1AB and she loved every minute. She also went to Brown University in a biomedical ethics program which she found interesting. She has had a good start to her junior year. She is in advanced classes, with math being her favorite, and has a lot of work but is always smiling. Her soccer team made it to the state semifinals, and she was not only a leader on her team, but also recognized as 1st team all-league which is quite an honor. Lexi got some travel in as well and went to LA, Jamaica, the Hamptons and Quebec.

Caroline continues to be a ray of sunshine. She got to enjoy trips to LA, Jamaica, the Hamptons, Iceland and to see her favorite Packers - the rain and cold did not stop her! A major event for her this year was having her braces removed. She is very engaged in school including leading tours for the admissions office. She has embraced her passion for art and has made some incredible pieces (see below). She joined Model UN and won Best Position Paper and Honorable Mention for Best Overall Delegate. She is enjoyed the public speaking and learning about the world around her. She continues to be involved in sports playing soccer, basketball and softball. Her best friend is her dog Bella - check out Bella's page on Instagram
